Because of the unprecedented conditions during the worldwide pandemic, it hasn't been possible to publish our journal regularly for two years. During this interval, the journal website was open and active. Therefore, some scientists submitted their manuscripts within this period. However, we were unable to handle and process the submitted manuscripts, due to health issues ensued by the pandemic on the administrative staff of our journal

We are deeply sorry for this unexpected situation. With the current issue, we have begun to publish the previously submitted manuscripts. All manuscripts were sent to anonymous international referees in the field who made great efforts to review them and significantly improve their quality. Only peer-reviewed papers are included in this issue. We are greatly thankful to the reviewers for their time and effort.
